

PhD Studentship – Sigrid Rausing MIASU Doctoral Studentship in the Social Anthropology of Inner Asia.

Department/Location Department of Social Anthropology

Category Studentships

Published 9 October 2020

Closing date 17 January 2021

Applications are invited for the Sigrid Rausing MIASU Doctoral Studentship in the Social Anthropology of Inner Asia. The Studentship, funded by a generous donation from the Sigrid Rausing Trust, will cover University and College fees and maintenance. Studentships will normally be tenable for three years.

To qualify for the award, applicants must be accepted onto the doctoral programme at the Department of Social Anthropology to carry out research in the region of Inner Asia, including the Mongolia, Tibet, Xinjiang, Inner Mongolia, Heilongjiang, Buryatia, Tuva, Altai, and Kalmykia. In addition to being students in the Department of Social Anthropology, successful applicants will be offered membership of the department's Mongolia & Inner Asia Studies Unit (MIASU).

Applicants meeting the above deadline and criteria will automatically be considered for the Scholarship when they apply for the PhD in Social Anthropology, there is no need for a separate application.

Applications from international students are welcome. We endeavour to award full studentships, although international students may be required to cover the fee gap between the home and overseas fee rates.

To apply for this studentship, candidates must apply through the University's Graduate Admissions application portal not later than 17 January 2021. The portal is at: <https://www.postgraduate.study.cam.ac.uk/courses/directory/aasapdsap> and there is a £70 fee for PhD applications.

The University actively supports equality, diversity and inclusion and encourages applications from all sections of society.

For further information about the studentship or the application process for the PhD in Social Anthropology please contact: graduate-secretary@socanth.cam.ac.uk.